

Domino's Pizza reopens remodeled store Domino's Pizza at 2828 E. 91st St. recently reopened its newly remodeled store, featuring a "pizza theater" design. Highlights include a comfortable lobby, open-area viewing of the food preparation process and the ability to track carryout orders electronically on a lobby screen. The store also features chalkboards to allow customers to express their creativity or to leave feedback for the store team members. John Eddie Hall, owner of Tulsa and the surrounding area's Domino's Pizza franchise, owns 13 stores throughout Oklahoma and has been with Domino's Pizza for more than 22 years. Blind 9/11 survivor to speak at OK Ethics Michael Hingson, who survived the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks with the help of his guide dog, Roselle, will speak on trust and teamwork during a Thursday OK Ethics Luncheon to be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the DoubleTree by Hilton Tulsa Downtown, 616 W. Seventh St.

Blind since birth, Hingson will provide insights into three key elements for winning teams " contributions, accountability and trustworthiness. Hingson is a No. 1 New York Times best-selling author, technologist and motivational speaker. He is the author of "Thunder Dog: The True Story of a Blind Man, His Guide Dog, and the Triumph of Trust at Ground Zero." The book recounts how Hingson and his guide dog, Roselle, saved dozens of lives by guiding him and his co-workers down 78 floors and out of Tower One just before it collapsed. Hingson has a master's degree in physics from the University of California, Irvine. He has worked with inventor and futurist Ray Kurzweil for more than 30 years and was instrumental in the development of the first reading machine for the blind. Cost is $30 for OK Ethics members and $45 for nonmembers. Reservations are required. Register online at okethics.org by Monday. InvestMidwest seeks entrepreneurs InvestMidwest Venture Capital Forum currently is accepting applications from entrepreneurs for its annual event to be held in Kansas City April 1-2. Early application deadline is Nov.

14. The venture capital forum, which regularly attracts upwards of 300 attendees, is a showcase for the best young, high-growth businesses in the Midwest. It will include three separate industry tracks: life sciences, information technology and agriculture/bioenergy. The forum also provides opportunities for meetings between entrepreneurs and venture capitalists, corporate investors, private investors, and business, financial and legal professionals. Companies that presented at InvestMidwest's previous 15 events have raised more than $1 billion in equity investment. An online application is available at investmidwestforum.com. Tulsa named chairman of textile rental service group Douglas Waldman, president of Tulsa-based Superior Linen Service, has been elected chairman of the board of directors for the Textile Rental Service Association, the top office of the leading association for companies worldwide that provide business-to-business laundry services. Superior Linen Service provides laundry and inventory of linens, uniforms, towels and other textile and hygiene products, mostly to hospitality and health-care businesses. The company also has locations in Oklahoma City and Muskogee; North Little Rock, Pringdale and Van Buren, Arkansas; Wichita, Kansas; and Springfield, Missouri. Waldman became Superior Linen Service's president in 1997, continuing in his grandfather's and father's footsteps. Before joining the family business, he was an officer in the U.S. Naval Reserve. He is a Coast Guard-licensed Merchant Mariner and a trainer to naval staff on proper plant operations. Previously vice chairman and board member of TRSA, Waldman became chairman during TRSA's Annual Conference Oct. 1-3 in Las Vegas. TRSA represents the $16 billion textile services industry that employs more than 200,000 people at more than 1,500 facilities nationwide by advocating for fair regulatory and legislative policy affecting the industry and promoting the environmental benefits of reusable textiles.

Subscribe to Daily Headlines Sign up! * I understand and agree that registration on or use of this site constitutes agreement to its user agreement and privacy policy.