

OSU announces master cattleman course The Tulsa County OSU Extension Center, 4116 E. 15th St., will offer a Master Cattleman Course that will begin 6:30 p.m. Nov. 6.

The course will be made up of 14 sessions that will cover cow and calf management, including nutrition, genetics, reproduction, financial management, forage management, herd health. Fee is $150 for a student or couple and covers the text and the 28 hours of course time taught by the OSU Extension faculty. Upon completion, students will receive a metal gate sign and a certificate of accomplishment. For more, contact extension educator Bruce Peverly at 918-637-2299 or bpeverly@tulsacounty.org. Tulsa firm welcomes new attorney OKC office Doerner, Saunders, Daniel & Anderson LLP hired associate attorney Jason T. Seay to its Oklahoma City office. Seay has experience in civil litigation focusing on data security and privacy matters, health care law, regulatory compliance, administrative law and coverage disputes.

His practice includes indemnity disputes, complex litigation, appeals, election and campaign finance law compliance. He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma and the University of Tulsa

College of Law. Delta Dental awards dentistry scholarship The Delta Dental of Oklahoma Foundation awarded its annual Delta Dental Scholarship Fund at the University of Oklahoma College of Dentistry to Lynna Van of Broken Arrow. Van, a third-year OU College of Dentistry student, plans to continue practicing in Oklahoma. Students were selected based on academic excellence and commitment to their communities. Since the foundation began its scholarship program in 2001, more than $740,000 has been awarded to 148 OU dentistry students. Spencer to lead state rehab servicesâ€™ program The Oklahoma Department of Rehabilitation Services has hired Michael Spencer to lead the agencyâ€™s statewide Business Enterprise Program as operations coordinator. Spencer and his wife, Janet, previously owned M&J Snack Bar, which successfully operated the Tulsa County Jail commissary until September, when state legislation transferred control to the Tulsa County Sheriffâ€™s Office.

Spencer was trained and certified in food service management by BEP and worked as a contractor for 17 years through the BEP program, which has helped thousands of blind business owners operate on government property since 1937. Leadership Tulsa sets Good News summit Applications are due Nov. 19 for Leadership Tulsa's first Good News Summit to be held early next year. The day will highlight good work happening in Tulsa and will bring together over 300 community members with 24 five-minute presentations. Visitors can also learn about local organizations at the Good News Fair, set for Feb. 1 at the Perkins Auditorium at OU-Tulsa. Good News is defined as anything being done in the Tulsa community that is making a positive impact. From non-profits to government, social services to exciting business entrepreneurship, philanthropy to health care, the Good News Summit will uncover, highlight, and celebrate anything that is making Tulsa a better place. To be a presenter or participate in the fair, visit goodnewstulsa.org.

Methodist Manor breaks ground on new residences Oklahoma Methodist Manor will break ground on 40 new assisted living residences at 2 p.m. Friday in the Fleming Center at its campus at 4134 E. 31st St. Bishop Jimmy Nunn will speak during the event. The new three-story building will contain 40 residences, a new main kitchen and a new dining venue. The Generation to Generation Campaign raised $8.5 million to help enable this new phase of growth and change with more than 170 donors contributing. "After five years of planning we are excited to begin the next phase of growth and change at OMM," said Steve Dickie, CEO for OMM. "Once the new assisted living residences are finished, construction will begin on two new Memory Care assisted living households." Hideaway Pizza to open second Arkansas location Tulsa-based Hideaway Pizza will open its second location outside Oklahoma when it opens its Conway, Arkansas, location Nov. 13. The 7,162-square-foot building in Conway's Lewis Crossing Shopping Center will be the company's largest with 48 tables and seating for 214. It will offer curbside to-go service with designated parking, a covered patio, and a wide selection of craft beer. Hideaway opened its first Arkansas location in October last year in North Little Rock. The company is privately owned with 18 restaurant locations and approximately 1,000 employees. Primrose School to hold grand opening Saturday Primrose School of South Tulsa and owners Kelli and Andrew Miller will hold a grand opening from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday. at its facility at 10185 S. 85th East Ave. The event will feature school tours, face painting, children's arts and crafts, garden activities, a balloon artist, a scavenger hunt and refreshments. Same-day enrollment offer will be available for families who register their children for classes this fall at the event.

"Andrew and I are thrilled to be coming home to Oklahoma to provide much-needed high-quality early education to Tulsa," Kelli Miller said. "Our family knows what a struggle it can be to find premier child care, and we want to give parents the peace of mind that comes from knowing their children are well-cared for and happy." Super Fall Carnival set at Tulsa Dream Center The Tulsa Dream Center, 200

W. 46th St. North, will hold its Super Fall Carnival at 11 a.m.-1 p.m.

Saturday. The event is free for children and families and will include a costume contest, pony rides, petting zoo, candy, food, games and more. Last year the event attracted over 800 children and families. This event is often one of the only

"carnivals" the children in this community ever get to go to, said Sarah Ingle, donor relations coordinator for the Tulsa Dream Center. MET to hold extinguisher, smoke alarm collection The Metropolitan Environmental Trust will hold an event to collect expired smoke alarms and fire extinguishers at 9 a.m.-noon Saturday in the Lowe's parking lot, 7225 S.

Olympia Ave. According to the National Fire Protection Association, detectors should be replaced at least every 10 years and not be placed in the trash. Also, old fire extinguishers are not to be disposed of in your regular trash or recycling containers.

MET will also accept mercury thermometers and thermostats. A $10 Lowe's gift card will be awarded to each party that brings a mercury thermostat while supplies last. Sunday event to benefit fire-ravaged California Tulsa restaurateurs, Oklahoma wine brokers and wine shops will hold a food and wine event benefitting the fire-ravaged regions of Mendocino, Napa, and Sonoma wine country at 1-3 p.m. Sunday at Polo Grill, 2038 Utica Square. A tax-deductible donation of $100 will allow guests to receive a tasting glass for the event, and proceeds will be distributed to these communities through the Napa Valley Community Foundation's Disaster Relief Fund, the Community Foundation of Sonoma County's Resilience Fund and the Community Foundation of Mendocino County Disaster Fund of Mendocino County. "We serve and enjoy wines, cheeses, olive oils and an assortment of other culinary items that are produced by these affected regions on a daily basis," said Robert Merrifield, proprietor/chef with Polo Grill. "The agricultural producers of the heartland in Oklahoma understand the work ethic that goes into making these products, and we want to support rebuilding the lives and livelihoods of our fellow purveyors." Participating restaurants include Bodean Seafood, Biga, Cox Event Center, Justin Thompson Restaurants, McGills, Mahogany Prime Steakhouse, Summit Club, and Polo Grill with support coming from OSU Culinary Program and Students. Oklahoma Wine Brokers include Dynamic Brands, Premium Brands, Provisions Fine Beverage Purveyors, Republic National Distributing, Southern Glazers Wine and Spirits, and Thirst Wine Merchants. Virginia College to hold Halloween event Saturday Virginia College in Tulsa will host a Halloween Spooktacular at 10 a.m.-noon Saturday at the campus, 5124 S. Peoria Ave. The free event will feature refreshments, campus tours, games, candy, face painting, a wound care clinic and a "Walk Through the Heart." Additionally, all attendees can enter to win prize giveaways such as Amazon gift cards. The event is part of Virginia College parent company Education Corporation of America's national Halloween Spooktacular events held at 62 other Virginia College, Brightwood College and Brightwood Career Institute locations throughout 16 states. Cherokee Nation Tech to host job fair Saturday Cherokee Nation Technologies will host a job fair from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday. The tribally owned company anticipates hiring 100 bilingual call center specialists to respond to calls from Disaster Recovery Service Centers. Hired support specialists will answer questions and perform data entry for individuals and businesses affected by recent hurricanes. CNT is looking for experienced and entry-level bilingual agents. All applicants must be U.S. citizens, be at least 18 years of age with a high school diploma or GED and have the ability to pass a background and drug screening. Attendees should bring copies of their resumes and be prepared for an interview on-site at the Cherokee Nation Career Services office, 10837 E. Marshall St., Tulsa, OK 74116. Injection-induced seismicity focus of event The Society of Exploration Geophysicists and the Society of Petroleum Engineers will host a joint workshop on injection-induced seismicity Nov. 6-8 at the Le Meridien Dallas. The workshop aims to provide the geological, seismological, and engineering framework to reservoir and completion engineers and geoscientists involved with designing or conducting injection operations. The workshop will frame the linkages between the geologic setting and the injection conditions that may increase risk of induced seismicity, and discuss approaches and tools for evaluating and minimizing seismic activity. Induced seismicity from the injection of fluids into the Earth is a growing concern for oilfield activities, such as saltwater disposal and hydraulic fracturing. The increasing number of earthquakes occurring in the oil and gas producing regions of the U.S. and Canada appears to be related to the large volumes of injected fluids, but the direct relationship between injection and seismicity is unclear in most situations. QuickBooks Workshop set for Wednesday REI Women's Business Center will hold a QuickBooks workshop Wednesday for small-business owners who manage their inventory, sales and other business transactions. Attendees will learn how QuickBooks can benefit their businesses with topics including examining charts of accounts, writing checks and recording deposits, reconciling bank statements, entering and paying vendor bills, invoicing customers and receiving payments, creating and understanding financial statements and balance sheets, tracking sales tax, customizing reports, entering and reconciling credit card charges, and utilizing sub-accounts. The workshop will be 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. at 3 Memorial Place Center, 7615 East 63rd Place, Suite 201, Tulsa. Registration is $115 per person and may be completed online at reiwbc.org. Fee includes hands-on instruction and lunch. This fee does not include an online subscription. GlobalHealth receives highest NCQA rating GlobalHealth, an Oklahoma-based health maintenance organization, was recognized as one of three health plans in the state to receive a 3 out of 5 rating (the highest rating in Oklahoma) by the National Committee for Quality Assurance Private Health Insurance Plan Ratings 2017-2018. GlobalHealth is a NCQA-accredited health plan and is the only HMO plan in the state to receive this rating. "We are honored to have received this recognition from NCQA," said Scott Vaughn, GlobalHealth president and CEO. "We are driven by our passion to deliver the best healthcare coverage in the industry. As the only HMO in the state to receive a 3 out of 5 rating for its commercial plans, this reflects our continued commitment to becoming the preferred insurance provider by offering quality, affordable healthcare for our current and prospective members, while earning their satisfaction and confidence." NCQA is a private, nonprofit organization dedicated to improving health care quality. Tulsa business named among the fastest-growing The Initiative for a Competitive Inner City and Fortune announced that Tulsa-based AmericanChecked has made the 2017 Inner City 100 list. It's the third year AmericanChecked, a nationally accredited, Native/Woman-owned, TERO/HUBZone certified background screening provider, has made the list ranks the fastest-growing inner city businesses in America by revenue growth. AmericanChecked ranked 81st on the list of 100 and reported a five-year growth rate of 82.12 percent from 2012-16. "Since our founding in 2005, AmericanChecked has steadily grown to become a nationally recognized and respected leader in the background screening industry," company president and CEO Julie Hakman said. "It is humbling to be the only background screening company listed amongst the fastest-growing small businesses in the country. We have built our reputation on quality, accuracy and customer service, and I believe the growth we've seen over the past decade is a reflection of how we serve our clients." ICIC's Inner City 100 list seeks to celebrate and enable urban entrepreneurship. Over the course of nearly 20 years ICIC has awarded 928 companies whose success illuminates the innovation and business growth happening in inner cities. Adam Daigle 918-581-8480 Follow Adam Daigle on Twitter at @adamdaigleTW