

2nd grade students from Skiatook Elementary participated in Farm to You on November 6.

Farm to You is a traveling, interactive adventure for elementary school children that follows food from the farm to the market and through the body to explore the relationships between agriculture, food, and health. Donna Robbins, Extension Educator for the OSU Cooperative Extension Service of Osage County, who helped bring this program to Skiatook, said, "This is a great interactive program and the kids love it!" • Farm to You is a collaboration between state agency, commodity, and community partners. The 2nd graders met in the gym at Skiatook Intermediate Elementary for the event. They learned that farms provide food for good health and learned to use food labels to make healthy choices.

They learned the importance of physical activity and personal hygiene, even checking out the germs present on their hands! Through participation in Farm to You, children should hopefully improve their eating and health behavior, as well as enjoy fun, interactive learning. The Oklahoma Cooperative Extension Service is located in Pawhuska. For more information call (918)

287-4170. Be the first to know Get local news delivered to your inbox! Sign up! * I understand and agree that registration on or use of this site constitutes agreement to its user agreement and privacy policy.