

One of the biggest attractions that draws newcomers to the community is its outstanding school system. Coweta Public School is a Class 5A school and is ranked among the 50 largest school districts in Oklahoma. The district's focus is "Every Child, Every Chance, Every Day". Coweta Public School is the community's largest employer with approximately 427 employees. The school district covers 115 square miles. As of November 2012, approximately 3,300 students attend the district's eight class sites. Educational opportunities are abundant for Coweta students at all grade levels. At the high school, college preparatory courses and concurrent enrollment are offered. Students can attend vo-tech at Indian Capital Technology Center in Muskogee. From Family, Career and Community Leaders of America and Career and Technology Agriculture to the Technology Student Association and FFA, hands-on study gives youth the skills they need to succeed in life. Pre-AP classes are introduced to students at Coweta Junior High and both Mission and Heritage Intermediate Grade Centers. School officials work with eighth graders to establish four-year high school plans, and at the elementary level, art, music and physical education programs are offered. CPS offers a wide range of educational programs for students with disabilities as well as for those who are gifted. The Title VII program makes services available for Native American students.
