

Chief Wendell Franklin talks about changes in the law that could help keep police officers “ and the public “ safer, but he says it's lawmakers' job to enact laws that balance public safety and Second Amendment rights.